Comprehension:

Read the following passage and answer the questions given below :

Santiniketan attempted to produce a culture, which was Bengali/Indian in its construction and approach yet significant to the modern world. In 1912, Rabindranath established an institution called Ashram-Sammilani. It was a body of elected students with teachers in-charge to look after the functioning of the school. Students' Unions are primarily concerned with student interest; they or any other union, for that matter-are formed to protect their rights against the authority's misuse of power. There was a court run by the elected student body. Whenever there was a complaint of any serious offence, the court had its session with the accused in some quiet place after dinner. The Sammilani met twice a month-once on new-moon nights, the other on full-moon nights. During Rabindranath's long stay at Silaidaha among the villagers he realised that only self-sufficiency, self-rule and self-respect could free our rural population from their weakness, poverty and sense of inferiority; that it was society that should rule, not the state imported from Europe. Sriniketan-Visva-Bharati's rural development/reconstruction programme started in 1922. Rabindranath applied the principles of the co-operative movement to Sriniketan; and as we know he applied it everywhere-equal respect for everybody, equal participation, equal distribution of material and spiritual wealth.

Comprehension:*Read the following passage and answer the questions-

To a large extent, British India and independent India helped China to re-establish and consolidate its hold on Tibet, particularly in view of Tibet having enjoyed de-facto independent status from 1913 to 1951. It must not be forgotten that India facilitated the Tibetan delegation to proceed through India Peking to formally accept to be an autonomous part of China, even though the seventeen-point agreement signed in May 1951 has remained controversial, as something done under duress. India's large heartedness and its endeavors to befriend China did not end there. As a gesture of goodwill, the Panchsheel Agreement of 1954 was a classic example of India's one-sided generosity and diplomatic naivety, one that resulted in its giving away all rights and privileges and significantly, in ending India's presence in Tibet without the country gaining anything as a quid pro quo. Although at times, there has been friction on the border issue, the maturity and statesmanship of the leaders of both nations have ensured that their problems were resolved in a peaceful manner through dialogue and diplomatic exchange, as has been demonstrated during the recent stand-off at Doklam.

Comprehension:*Read the following passage and answer the questions-

The campaign for decentralization of authority has a long past. As history shows, sustained attempts were made to decentralize authority in India since the 1880s with the acceptance of Rippon resolution of 1882. One of the most clearly-stated justifications for Panchayati Raj Institutions (PRIs) was given by the report of the Ashok Mehta Committee. Another categorical statement regarding strengthening of local self-government was made by the report of the 1986 L. M. Singhvi Committee, Revitalisation of PRIs for Democracy and Development. What was strongly argued became a reality with the adoption of the 73rd Amendment Act in 1992, which not only constitutionalised local self government in India but also gave the long overdue constitutional recognition to PRIs. The legislative origins of the 73rd constitutional Amendment Act can be traced back to the constitutional 64th Amendment Bill, which was introduced in the Parliament in 1989. 73rd constitutional Amendment Act of 1992 introduced a three - tier structure of rural local level - gram Panchayats at the lowest level, panchayat samiti at the intermediate level and zilla parishad at the highest level.
